Three-in-One External Hard Drive from Western Digital

Western Digital's My Book™ external hard drive combines three leading interfaces on one drive for maximum performance and universal connectivity. Designed to work with both Macs and PCs, this drive includes powerful Retrospect® Express backup and system software, a unique capacity gauge LED, and capacities up to 500 GB. The easy-to-use, plug-and-go design eliminates the need for CD installation because the software loads straight from the drive. It's the perfect storage solution for professional editing, high-end photography, graphic design and ultra-fast system backup. $69.99.

Franklin Electronic's Global Translator Sure to Leave You Speechless

This super powerful, brand new communication device has over 40,000 words and phrases in over 12 different languages all while fitting right into your pocket. Now you'll never be at a loss for words when you visit Asia or Europe, and you can feel confident in trying to pick up that foreign hottie in your physics class. Franklin has made the world a whole lot smaller by creating this handy device. There is even a speaking version so you don't slaughter phrases. The non-speaking translator retails at a cool $99.95, while the speaking translator comes in at a hefty $229.99.

Griffin Technology's 5:1 Express Reader Spins Heads with Speed

Griffin Technology's newest device, the ExpressCard/34 5:1 Memory Card Reader, boasts incredible download speed from your device's memory card straight to your computer with no messy cables. It is plug and play, and no drivers are required. If your laptop has the ExpressCard slot, simply slide it in and enjoy. The device allows for five types of media to be read: Memory Stick PRO™, Memory Stick™, SD™ Memory Card, MultiMediaCard™ and xD-Picture Card™. We tested a transfer of over 200MB of files from a SD card and it was blazingly quick. It's well worth the $30.
