Earth Week, 2001, activist/actor Woody Harrelson is embarking on a journey. A physical journey. A spiritual journey. Harrelson will be bicycling down the beautiful Pacific Coast Highway from Seattle to Santa Barbara. Along the way, Harrelson will stop at college campuses, and will make impromptu appearances at different locations. He will speak about the need for ecological reform, the need to halt the destruction of our rainforest by industry, the need to halt the poisoning of our bodies by pesticides, the need to change the devastating impact our species is having on this planet, the need to change the impact current corporate culture is having on our species, and the need for people to wrench themselves from the corporate grid.

Woody will be followed by a bio-fuel bus run on hemp oil and vegetable oil. The bus will be equipped with solar powered appliances and a green-house, which will produce organic foods for the journey. Also on the bus will be an assortment of Harrelson's friends.

He's going to give lectures at schools, and hold massive Yoga classes at random locations. He's going to introduce people to organic food, painted fruit, hemp clothing and conscious, low-impact living. Come rain or shine, come fun or family crises, we'll all be insiders with a full-access backstage pass. We'll all be "on the bus."

Come join Woody as he goes On the Road & Off the Grid.

All you need to bring is an open mind!
